ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

Our first and greatest debt is to the bodies that have provided funding for the Lexicon of Greek Personal Names. Since 2001, core funding for the project has come from the Arts and Humanities Research Council, in the form of grants under the Resource Enhancement scheme (2001–2007) and the Research Project scheme (2007–2012). We are very grateful that in a competitive environment where projects of short duration enjoy some advantage, the long-term project of the Lexicon has continued to find support. We acknowledge also with gratitude the grants for specific purposes which, as a British Academy Research Project, we have been able to bid for annually from the Academy, and also for grants from the J. F. Costopoulos Foundation which helped to support preliminary research for this volume. The editors of LGN IV wrote that ‘It is a particular pleasure to record, once more, the support, moral as well as financial, which we have enjoyed for over a decade from the Archaeological Society at Athens and its General Secretary B. Petrakos.’ With ‘more than a decade’ now exceeding fifteen years we reiterate those thanks yet more warmly.

We also wish to acknowledge a special debt of gratitude to Robert Parker, Director of LGN, for his advice and support in obtaining this funding, as well as in many other scholarly, administrative and practical matters.

To thank Elaine Matthews, whose name has been inseparable from that of LGN since the appearance of the first volume in 1987, seems almost redundant; but the Lexicon’s huge and continuing debt to her expertise and commitment (far from terminated by her retirement as Director of the project in 2007) should be formally recorded with deep gratitude.

Our debts to colleagues in Britain (especially in Oxford) and other countries have been as great in the compilation of this volume as they have been in its predecessors, and we warmly thank all those who have given us advice in their fields of expertise, provided us with materials as yet unpublished, often the fruit of prolonged research and labour, or with publications not available to us even in the excellent libraries of Oxford. Without their generous gifts of time and scholarship, an endeavour such as this would be greatly impoverished.

As in previous volumes, we repeat our debt to the many individuals whose work in the early stages of the Lexicon project contributed to the compilation of the main body of names recorded here. In addition to those whose names appear in the preface to LGN I, we acknowledge in particular the valuable contributions made by the late I. B. Brashinskii on the amphora stamps of Herakleia and Sinope, C. J. Howgego on the Imperial coinage of Asia Minor, and S. Mitchell on much of the epigraphic material from Mysia. We would also like to acknowledge the friendly cooperation in these early stages of D. Knibbe and of G. Petzl with regard to material from Ephesos and Smyrna respectively.

More recently the project has benefitted from important contributions made by a number of scholars whose generous help deserves special recognition.

North Coast of Asia Minor

We owe a special debt to A. Avram who continued his collaboration begun for LGN IV on the material from the Black Sea region. He has not only generously put his prosopography of this area at our disposal, but has also spent a considerable amount of time checking, correcting and adding to our collection of personal names derived from the amphora stamps of Herakleia Pontike and Sinope, material which cannot easily be assimilated by the non-specialist.

C. Marek has provided us with his valuable database of inscriptions of the north coast of Asia Minor. D. Dana shared with us his unrivalled knowledge of personal names of Thracian and/or Bithynian origin. Several articles in Gephyra 4 (2007) were made available to us before publication by J. Nollé and J. Stauner.

Troas

M. Riel, with her intimate knowledge of the area of Alexandria Troas, has been responsible for the compilation of the names from the Troad.

Mysia

G. Bowersock generously gave us access to the epigraphic material collected in and around Kyzikos by Louis Robert, especially from ancient Daskyleion. Among the latter's notes, squeezes and photographs, which are now kept at the Archives du Fonds Louis Robert de l'Académie des Inscriptions et Belles-Lettres in Paris, there are numerous unpublished inscriptions, from which we have been allowed to extract the personal names. These are cited as 'Unp. (Fonds Robert)'.
 D. Papamarkos allowed us to consult an unpublished paper on the decree of Apollonia in favour of Mardonios, attributed by L. Moretti to Apollonia Pontike and by L. Robert to Apollonia on the Maeander. We concur with the author in believing that it more probably refers to Apollonia on the Rhyndakos in northern Mysia.

It has regrettably not been possible to take up the generous offer of E. Schwertheim allowing us access to his archive of unpublished inscriptions from Kyzikos and its periphery.

Lydia

M. Riel has had the prime responsibility for the compilation of the large number of personal names from this complex region. H. Malay, particularly through his collaboration with Riel, has made available to us many personal names from inscriptions discovered during his research in Lydia which are as yet unpublished, as well as a smaller number from other regions. The majority of these are cited simply as 'Unp. (Malay)', but some are cited with a reference to a museum (e.g. Unp. (Manisa Mus.)). He has also been generous with advice based on his unrivalled and intimate knowledge of the region, especially on problems of historical topography. The late P. Herrmann also communicated a number of unpublished texts to Riel which are duly recorded under his name. G. Petzl kindly made the text of his edition of the inscriptions of Philadelpheia and its territory available to Riel in advance of its publication in 2007 as TAM V (3).

Ionia

J.-L. Ferrary has generously provided us with, and subsequently revised and verified, exhaustive lists of the people attested in the records of foreign delegations to the oracular shrine at Klaros in the second and third centuries AD, pertaining both to the local sanctuary officials and the delegates themselves. This important body of inscriptions will be published shortly by him as Les mémoires de délégations de Claros (cited here as Ferrary, Mémoires).

W. Blümel put at our disposal the text of the new corpus of the inscriptions of Priene to be published by him and the late R. Merkelbach.

B. Dreyer and H. Engelmann sent us copies of several as yet unpublished articles relating to Metropolis and Ephesos and a list of names drawn from unpublished inscriptions from Metropolis.

A. W. Johnston made available the personal names of probable Ionian origin found among the graffiti on pottery from Naukratis, collected in the course of his revision of the entire corpus of this widely dispersed material.

Numismatics

Names recorded on coins have made a larger contribution to the present fascicle than any of those that have preceded it. In this specialised area we have depended heavily on experts in the field for providing lists of names as well as for more general advice. The greatest debt is owed to P. Kinns who has been responsible for assembling the vast body of names derived from the Classical and Hellenistic coinage of the cities of Ionia, much of it drawn from obscure sales catalogues and Fixed Price Lists, as well as from unpublished collections and market sources. Through Kinns' good offices we have also been provided by Ö. Tekin with the names attested in an important unpublished hoard of third-century coins of Magnesia on the Maeander. This material (cited here as 'Unp. (Tekin, Magnesia hoard)') will be presented by Ö. Tekin at the International Numismatic Congress in Glasgow, 2009 in a paper entitled 'The Magnesian hoard: a preliminary report'.

For other regions, R. Ashton has provided the names from the coinage of Kyme, Abydos, Lampsakos and Kios. He also did much to improve and supplement our coverage of the names attested on coins from the cities of Lydia. W. Stancomb contributed the names from the emissions of Amisos, Sinope and Kalchedon. F. de Callatay provided us with a draft of an unpublished, detailed study of the fourth-century coinage of Sinope.

C. J. Howgego was responsible at a much earlier stage for the names on the imperial coinage of Asia Minor and the project has subsequently benefited from the advice and help given by staff of the Roman Provincial Coinage project in Oxford, in particular V. Heuchert. At a late stage W. Leschhorn sent us a list of names on coins from Asia Minor. We would also like to thank M. Amandry for his willingness to verify readings of names on coins in the collection of the Cabinet des Médailles, Bibliothèque Nationale in Paris.

Other Acknowledgements

V. Bardani and P. Themelis sent us the names of the three judges from Smyrna honoured in an unpublished inscription from Messene.

G. Malouchou provided us with the text of an unpublished list of proxenoi from Chios which she has studied for her doctoral dissertation (cited as 'Unp. (Chios)'). She and A. Matthaïou also offered their readings of a section of another, published Chian list of proxenoi.

E. Miranda De Martino, together with her colleagues V. De Martino and D. Di Nanni, kindly supplied the names of people from Asia Minor recorded in the inscriptions recovered in the excavations in Piazza Nicola Amore in Naples relating to victors in the contests at the Sebasta at Neapolis (here cited as 'Unp. (Sebasta di Napoli)').

For help and advice of a more general nature we are also indebted to E. Bowie, R. van Bremen, M. D. Campanile, A. Chaniotis, C. Crowther, K. Hallof, S. Hornblower, N. Kanavou, F. Marchand, the late R. Merkelbach, A. Morpurgo Davies, P. Özlem Aytaçlar and P. Thonemann.

For technical support in connection with the project's computing and type-setting requirements, we thank N. Leeder and V. Ramoutar (Classics Faculty, Oxford), J. C. Moffett (Ashmolean Museum, Oxford), and S. Rahtz (Oxford University Computing Services). Finally, we should also like to acknowledge the administrative support received from the Classics Office in Oxford, in particular E. Clarke, and to thank Maggy Sasanow for her assistance with the LGPN website.
